DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-18 have been cancelled by a preliminary amendment. Claims 19-33 were added in the same preliminary amendment. Therefore, claims 19-33 are now pending in this office action.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

2. Claims 19-28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because claims are directed to non-statutory subject matter.

With respect to claim 19, the claim is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the invention, as claimed, appears to be directed to merely an abstract idea. The Examiner makes this assertion because the claim simply recites “receiving a request...”, “creating an entry...”, “receiving content...”, “receiving a category...”, “storing said content...”, and “associating said entry...” with no attempt to tie all of the methods steps together in order to carry out a final, conclusionary, and tangible method step.

Since the claim presented by the applicant is simply a representation of an abstract idea, the claims are not covered by the statutory categories of patentable subject matter set forth in 35 U.S.C. 101.

However, an abstract idea is categorized as one of three judicially created exceptions to patentable subject matter (the three exceptions are Laws of Nature, Natural Phenomena, and Abstract Ideas). The courts have concluded that in order to patent one of the three judicial exceptions to the statutory categories of invention the applicant must show that the claimed invention has a practical, real-world application that produces a useful, concrete, and tangible result (State Street, 149 F.3d at 1373-74, 47 USPQ2d at 1601-02).

In order to overcome this rejection, it is required that the Applicant amend claim ^{p.2}19 such that claim ^{p.9.}19 provides a final, conclusionary, and tangible method step. This final step should tie together all previously recited method steps. Finally, the claimed invention as a whole must set forth a practical application of the invention, which provides a useful, concrete, and tangible result. Correction of this deficiency is required.

Claims 20-23 are rejected because they fail to resolve the deficiencies of claim 19.

Claim 24 is rejected under the same reasons set forth in the rejection of claim 19.

Claims 25-28 are rejected because they fail to resolve the deficiencies of claim 24.

With respect to claim 29, the claim appears to be directed to an apparatus in the form of a web server. However, the claims are not actually limited to any physical articles or objects. It appears that the Applicant is seeking to patent particular programmed functionality of the components rather than the components themselves. Specifically, the claim limitations of “receive a request from a user...”, “create an entry...”, “receive content associated...”, “receive a category...”, “store said content...”, and “associate said entry...” all appear to be directed to software subroutines. Since the claim limitations are indeed directed to programmed functionality and not the components of an apparatus themselves, the claimed programmed functionality must have a final result achieved, which is useful, concrete, and tangible. See the rejections given to claim ^{p.9.}19 for further guidance as to the type of amendments that need to be made in order to overcome the rejection.

Claims 30-33 are rejected because they fail to correct the deficiencies of claim 29.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 19-33 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by U.S. Patent Number 5,706,507 issued to Robert Jeffrey Schloss (hereinafter “Schloss”).

Claim 19:

Schloss discloses a method for creating entries containing non-textual content in an on-line database containing:

receiving a request from a user to create an entry in an on-line database (Schloss: column 2, lines 43-51 and column 6, lines 1-6 and column 9, line 46-column 10, line 3 and Fig. 10 and Fig. 11; Note specifically in column 9, lines 63-64 that “multiple lists may be created”. These lists are entries in an on-line database.);

creating an entry in the on-line database (Schloss: column 9, lines 63-64); receiving content associated with the entry, said content including non-textual information (Schloss: column 4, line 57-column 5, line 2 and column 8, lines 20-23; Note specifically that graphics can be received in addition to text.);

receiving a category defined by said user for said entry and a description of said category (Schloss: column 2, lines 43-51 and column 6, lines 1-6 and column 9, line 46-column 10, line 3 and Fig. 10 and Fig. 11);

Art Unit: 2163

storing said content in said entry (Schloss: column 4, lines 39-42 and column 4, lines 59-61; Since the data is already stored in the database, there must have been some means to store it in the database.); and associating said entry with said category (Schloss: column 4, lines 39-42 and column 4, lines 59-61; Surely a knowledge base that characterizes content associates some entry with some category.).

Claim 20:

Schloss discloses all the elements of claim 19, as noted above, and Schloss further discloses wherein said non-textual content comprises graphics (Schloss: column 8, lines 20-23; Note specifically that the non-textual context is graphics.).

Claim 21:

Schloss discloses all the elements of claim 19, as noted above, and Schloss further discloses the act of allowing said user to index said selected entry in said on-line database with at least one user-defined keyword (Schloss: column 6, lines 1-6).

Claim 22:

Schloss discloses all the elements of claim 19, as noted above, and Schloss further discloses the act of allowing said user to add a URL to said entry in said on-line database (Schloss: column 5, lines 7-10 and column 9, lines 46-58; The advisory servers are identified by URL and the user can add advisory services to a list stored in a database.).

Claim 23:

Schloss discloses all the elements of claim 19, as noted above, and Schloss further comprising the act of allowing said user to add a hyperlink to said entry in said on-line database

Art Unit: 2163

(Schloss: column 4, lines 26-29 and column 5, lines 7-10 and column 9, lines 46-58; The advisory servers are identified by URL and the user can add advisory services to a list stored in a database. Furthermore, adding hyperlinks and URLs to databases is well known in the art.).

Claim 24:

Claim 24 is rejected under the same reasons set forth in the rejection of claim 19.

Claim 25:

Claim 25 is rejected under the same reasons set forth in the rejection of claim 20.

Claim 26:

Claim 26 is rejected under the same reasons set forth in the rejection of claim 21.

Claim 28 is rejected under the same reasons set forth in the rejection of claim 23.

Claim 29:

Claim 29 is rejected under the same reasons set forth in the rejection of claim 19.

Claim 30:

Claim 30 is rejected under the same reasons set forth in the rejection of claim 20.

Claim 31:

Claim 31 is rejected under the same reasons set forth in the rejection of claim 21.
